City Positions Will be Given Four Discharged Union Men

UNION RATIFIES PACT

And Men are Now Working as Usual—Proposal Was Mayor Marshall's Suggestion.

Columbus, May 3.—The Columbus street car strike is off.

At 1:40 a. m. the union car men voted to accept the proposal of Mayor Marshall, whereby service is to be resumed as early this morning as the cars can be gotten under headway.

Early this morning the unionists gave their sanction to the Marshall plan.

The Original Statement.

Columbus, O., April 6, 1910.

To the Columbus Railway & Light Company, Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen: I suggest to you as a basis of settlement of existing differences between your company and its employees the following memorandum:

1. The employees of this company may come at any reasonable time for conference with the management on any matter connected with their employment by this company.
2. There will be no discrimination against employees because of membership in any union, nor of their right to join such union.
3. The wages of conductors and motormen in effect April 1, 1910, will be increased by 1 cent per hour, to take effect April 3, 1910, and one-half cent per hour, to take effect Jan. 1, 1910.
4. The following men may return to the employment of the company:

Messrs. Toy, Orr, Parker, Hammerstein, Placier, Nelson, Cavenor, Wagner, Gill, Swesey, Heston, Guess, Hennell, Staltz, Walker, McDaniels, Shupier, Palmer, Cradlebaugh, Eader, Cranmer, Schwartz, Rose, Smith, Demaris, Shelley, Brown, Sutton, Fie, Alkire, Mohler, Baumgard, Dahays, Sellers, and Allen, and take the positions occupied by them respectively at the time of their discharge; provided the men who were promoted to fill the vacancies so created will assent thereto.

For the convenience of the employees, this communication may be posted at the barns of the company.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) JOSEPH BISHOP, Sec. Mr. Joseph Bishop, Secretary of the Ohio State Board of Arbitration, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir: The above meets with the approval of this company.

Yours very truly,

THE COLUMBUS RAILWAY AND LIGHT COMPANY.

(Signed) E. K. STEWART, First V. P. and Gen'l Mgr. Columbus, O., April 6, 1910.

The Supplementary Agreement.

Columbus, O., May 2, 1910.

The company agrees to the following interpretation of section 2 in the agreement of April 6, with the state board of arbitration:

"Men are to be free to join or not to join any organization without intimidation or discrimination, and the company agrees that when engaging employees the question of unionism or nonunionism shall be eliminated."

"Relating to the four men whose replacement is in dispute under section 4 of the agreement, the company agrees that 'those four men' shall receive a compensation equivalent to that of their former positions, regardless of the runs assigned to them." (Signed)

E. K. STEWART, JOHN MURPHY, W. D. MCKINNEY.

The latter clause on the supplementary agreement was inserted so that the men could accept the alternative of accepting employment with the company under the conditions named or employment with the city.

When Rev. Dr. Gladden and other representative citizens had about given up in despair of effecting a settlement, Mayor Marshall declared that in order to settle the difficulty he would provide places in the city administration for the four discharged unionists, over whose reinstatement all peace efforts had centered.

Marshall's proposal at once found favor with the peace advocates and likewise with the railway company officials and union leaders.

The latter issued a call for a meeting of the union at 10 o'clock to ratify the proposal. The meeting did not begin until after 11 o'clock.

"Settlement of the differences between the company and the men is very gratifying to me and to the company," said General Manager E. K. Stewart, of the Columbus Railway and Light Company last night.

BALDWIN'S ARE THE WHOLE THING IN FAYETTEVILLE

Fayetteville, W. Va., May 3.—Court officials stated today that if the jury in the trial of Superintendent Albert C. Felz, of the Baldwin detectives, charged with robbing Paymaster Wicks at the New River collieries last July, convicts him, a battle will take place between about 50 heavily armed Baldwin detectives and the Hatfield feud clan, many of whom are the state's strongest witnesses.

The Baldwins are censoring every telegram and telephone message that enters the town and inspecting every visitor to prevent the state from procuring further evidence. Citizens are afraid to venture on the street.

Bluefield, W. Va., May 3.—Brake-man Watts was killed and several others injured when Norfolk and Western freight No. 55 ran into a train of empties today. Twenty cars were smashed and burned.

Estimated 4,500 Miles Away.

Washington, May 3.—The weather bureau seismograph recorded a disturbance last night which it was estimated occurred 4,500 miles away.

RANKS FOURTH IN POPULATION

Washington, May 3.—Unofficial estimates given out by the census bureau today show that Ohio ranks fourth among the states with an estimated population of 4,642,761. Kentucky is estimated at 2,452,713.

DEAD COVERS BATTLE FIELD

Vienna, May 3.—The Albanian rebels were successful in all of yesterday's engagements with the government troops. Hundreds were killed and unless the troops are heavily reinforced they will be unable to hold their position. Wounded soldiers are streaming into Vienna and the battlefields are literally covered with dead.

From the reports of the campaign conducted by the government troops it is believed that they are under orders to suppress the rebellion by stamping out the entire Albanian reservation.

DIRECTOR

Of Census Bureau Says Figures Given Out Exclusively by U. P. Yesterday Were Compiled by Him.

Washington, May 3.—When the director of the census, was called today to statements designed to discredit the population estimates sent out exclusively yesterday in United Press dispatches, he said:

"The United Press has acted in good faith with the bureau and those estimates were compiled here. They are unofficial, but are the most accurate to be had now. When the final count is announced some months from now, it will be found that they are very close to right."

ASTOUNDING CONFESSION OF LEVISON

White Slaves Kept on Exhibition for Prospective Purchasers

CRUSADE WAS STARTED

Which Will Put an End to the Traffic in Innocent Young Girls.

New York, May 3.—Astounded by the confession of Harvey Levinson, master of white slaves, District Attorney Whitman's entire staff is engaged today in rounding up evidence that will probably end in numerous arrests. At the same time the district attorney will raid several stockades, where white slaves are kept on exhibition for prospective purchasers and from which they are sent, guiltless and innocent to a life of shame and death.

At least three men and three women have been named by Levinson as conducting these "stockades" where human ware is shown and sold.

Levinson's attorney admitted today that his client had not told all. His future revelations it is expected will exceed those of yesterday in their graphic brutality.

Whitman is determined to find the men and women "higher up" in the organized band of white slavers. To the end he is today obtaining the names of the wealthy owners of property in which these white slaves stockades are located, and he declares he will prosecute them for leasing their property for such purposes. Men and women of business and social prominence are said to be violating the law which prohibits the leasing of houses for disorderly resorts.

That the crusade is bound to put an end to the traffic in girls is predicted by Edward Carpet, Levinson's attorney, who urged his client to plead guilty and turn state's evidence in the hope that the white slave business might be terminated.

Carpet today issued the following statement:

"District Attorney Whitman has broken the back of the white slave system not only in New York but throughout the country. Through his untiring efforts the traffic in women will stop after the amazing revelations to come. I think the ends of justice and the interests of my client are best served by a full and free confession of the terrible conditions which have prevailed until now."

The story of white slavery reeks with filth of the underworld, and Levinson is but one of the pitiful rats, a victim of this unholy system, who has kept from the holes of vice to be caught by the hand of justice."

Levinson's confession bared the system of white slavery to the world and showed that New York was the clearing house, from which immature and innocent girls were sent to houses of prostitution in all parts of America.

He told the district attorney of three "stockades" where a number of girls were always kept on hand, their charms displayed to prospective purchasers and their price fixed according to a set scale.

These stockades are conducted by women, financially backed by men of their stripe. It is to these places that keepers of resorts turn when seeking a fresh supply of girls. The girls are sold like so many cattle and delivered as such.

"The method of getting girls into these stockades—smuggling horse—is simple and very efficacious because of its simplicity. The women in charge of the stockades haunt the moving picture shows and cheap theatres. They see the audience, not

HOLIDAY IN CHRISTIANIA IN HONOR OF ROOSEVELT; DELIVERS PEACE ADDRESS

Christiania, Norway, May 3.—Today is a holiday in honor of Colonel Roosevelt. All stores are closed and the streets are thronged with merry-makers. The Colonel spent the morning with his mail.

After lunch at the American embassy he became the guest of the Noble Prize committee for the rest of the day. At the National theatre he delivered an address today to the committee on International Peace. The theatre was packed. Colonel Roosevelt said:

"It is with peculiar pleasure that I stand here today to express the deep appreciation I feel of the high honor conferred upon me by the presentation of the Nobel peace prize. The gold medal which formed part of the prize I shall always keep, and I shall hand it on to my children as a precious heirloom."

The sum of money provided as part of the prize by the wise generosity of the illustrious founder of this world famous prize system I did not, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, feel at liberty to keep. I think it eminently just and proper that in most cases the recipient of the prize should keep for his own use the prize in its entirety. But in this case, while I did not act officially as president of the United States, it was nevertheless only because I was president that I was enabled to act at all, and I felt that the money must be considered as having been given me in trust for the United States.

I therefore used it as a nucleus for a foundation to forward the cause of industrial peace, as being well within the general purpose of your committee, for on our complex industrial civilization of today the peace of righteousness and justice, the only kind of peace worth having, is at least as necessary in the industrial world as it is among nations.

There is at least as much need to curb the cruel greed and arrogance of part of the world of capital, to curb the cruel greed and violence of part of the world of labor, as to check a cruel and unhealthy militarism in international relationships.

Peace Generally Good.

We must ever bear in mind that the great end in view is righteousness, justice as between man and man, nation and nation, the chance to lead our lives on a somewhat higher level, with a broader spirit of brotherly good will one for another.

Peace is generally good in itself, but it is never the highest good unless it comes as the handmaid of righteousness, and it becomes a very evil thing

STATE HAS CLOSED IN HYDE TRIAL

Defendant's Mother-in-law in Quivering Voice Tells Tragic Story

DEATH CHAMBER SCENES

Vividly Described by Witness Who Verifies Son's Story of Finding Cyanide Capsules.

Kansas City, Mo., May 3.—Mrs. Margaret Swope, widow of Logan O. Swope, in a voice quivering with emotion, told her story to the jury in the trial of her son-in-law, Dr. E. C. Hyde, for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, her brother-in-law. At the conclusion of her testimony, the state rested its case.

After describing the events between September 12 and December 18, she told with much feeling of receiving from her son, Thomas, the fragments of capsules he had found in the snow where Dr. Hyde had thrown them.

Mrs. Swope told how she fastened the pieces to a card and soon afterward telephoned for J. G. Paxton, her attorney. He came in 30 or 40 minutes. The defendant had returned to the house from Dr. Tryman's office, where he had been told of the nurses' revolt.

That was the last time Dr. Hyde ever entered her home. She washed her son's hands after smelling the fingers. The odor suggested almonds.

Mrs. Swope said that she, Dr. Hyde and Colonel Hunton discussed the residuary estate which Colonel Swope had intended to leave to some charity. They talked of how the estate would be divided among the relatives if the will remained unchanged.

This contradicted the defense's declaration that when Colonel Swope died Mrs. Hyde and her husband did not know whether or not they would receive anything. That visit and talk was Sunday, September 12. Miss Kellar came the next day and took charge of Colonel Swope.

"He," said the witness, speaking of Dr. Hyde, "came to Mr. Hunton and myself, after he had talked with Colonel Swope, and said: 'Colonel Swope wants to make a will. He wants a Mr. Hawthorne to be an executor. He seems to have it in for you, Mr. Hunton.'"

"Mr. Swope told him, Dr. Hyde, that he had given liberally to all of his relatives and wanted to dispose of the rest to charity, but he could not make up his mind how he wanted to divide it. The residuary, Colonel Swope explained, would, under his will as it stood, be equally divided among his nephews and nieces."

Mrs. Swope described the seizure of Mr. Hunton and his death from apoplexy. Her voice failed frequently and she was obliged to cease speaking for a few seconds to regain control of her emotions.

Of the last illness of Colonel Swope, Mrs. Swope said:

"While Dr. Hyde, Miss Kellar and I were at breakfast on the morning of December 6, the doctor gave her a capsule to administer to Col. Swope. They went out, and then returning the nurse told me Mr. Swope had not taken the medicine, but would later."

"When Mr. Swope suffered his convulsion, Dr. Hyde said to me, 'It's just another case like Mr. Hunton's; it's only a question of time now.'"

"I was unnerved, due to the death of Mr. Hunton, and when Dr. Hyde in whom at that time I had absolute confidence, said Col. Swope's death was near, I felt I could not go into the room. Therefore it was several hours before I went to his bedside."

Christman Swope was in a comfortable condition on the morning of October 5, the day he had his first convulsion, said the witness.

"I did not go into his room when he was having his convulsion, because I could not," she said. "When I did see him, I laid my hand on his face, and he said, 'Don't worry, mother, we'll pull through all right.'"

"About 4:30 that afternoon Dr. Twyman and I went to Christman. He was rational, but nervous. Dr. Hyde told me he was going to operate on him for appendicitis."

"He thought the doctor was trying to deceive him. I told him I would let nobody deceive him, and that he was not suffering from appendicitis and that I would not permit him to be deceived."

RETIRE AS PRESIDENT.

COLUMBUS, O., MAY 3.—J. Strangely, for three years president of West La. college, has resigned to take the position of the Broad street M. E. church, Baltimore, Md. He is succeeded as president by Rev. C. H. Beck.

ASTOUNDING CONFESSION

The stage, if a pretty girl, of evident poverty, is present, the woman, gowned in silks and resplendent in jewels, approaches her and enters into conversation. For the most part these girls of poor homes are awestricken that so grand a lady would notice them. They are a little proud, too, and that pride is their undoing. The "grand lady" invites them to visit her at her home, usually palatially appointed. When the girls are gazing at this sign of great wealth, the woman points to her in glowing words what an easy life she too may live, how she may dwell in luxury without work and be dressed in the finest clothes. The rest is easy. The girls are caught in the trap of the temptress and are ready for sale. Most of the girls are sold in New Jersey and Connecticut cities, though some have been shipped as far as the Pacific coast. But they never go alone. Human leaches like Levinson are sent with them, as their guard. For thus conducting a girl from a stockade to the resorts Levinson receives 10 per cent of the girl's "earnings." There seemed to be no end to the number of girls these stockades could furnish. Levinson remembered instances where women with money, desiring to open resorts, could secure an entire house full of girls at one time. The white slaves are not all products of poor homes in New York City. Levinson told the police, procuresses often preyed upon country girls, who came to New York to seek fame and fortune.

New York May 3.—Leaders of the white slave traffic have abandoned their resort here and are fleeing to foreign countries. Prosecutor Whitman is enraged at the failure of the police to grasp the opportunity they had to make a clean up of these fiends.

Women conduct the stockades and procure the stock Men of Levinson's type sell and deliver it. The procuresses bedecked in jewels and fine clothes pick their victims from cheap restaurants and moving picture shows. By the distinction of being noticed by these "grand ladies" young girls are lured to a palatial home and the easy and luxury of life are proposed to the victims by the procuresses contrasted strongly with privation and hard work that the girl finds herself before long in a stockade being inspected by some resort keeper looking for new stock.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Beetle Bug and the Butterfly

I have a feeling that some day I'll be something better.

"Daddy, you ever see a caterpillar, children?" asked Daddy. "Well, it's not very pretty to look at. A caterpillar is a worm with many feet. Once there was a caterpillar that had a beetle bug. Both were crawling along the top of a narrow plank in the fence, and the beetle bug said to the caterpillar, 'This is my path, and you must get out of my way. I don't show ugly worms like you to use my path. Look at me, I'm a beetle bug, and I've got strong flapper shells on my back. See me flap up and down. You're nothing but a soft worm, and you ought to go somewhere and hide.'

"Neither of us ought to brag, though," said the caterpillar. "You're a good deal stronger than I am, but then if Mrs. Cow should step on you she'd smash you just the same as she'd smash me. Besides, you'll never be anything but a beetle bug, and I have a feeling that some day I'll be something better and prettier than a worm. I feel just like flying right now."

"Huh!" said the beetle bug. "You can't fly. You're got no wings. I can fly a little myself. Watch me!" So the beetle bug opened his dapper shells and flew down to the ground.

"The caterpillar crawled along and said no more. But every day the beetle bug tried to torment the caterpillar by flying from the fence to the ground. He couldn't fly up again, though. He had to crawl up the fencepost."

"At last one day the caterpillar said, 'I think I'll take your advice and go and hide somewhere. I feel just as if I'm getting ready to fly, and I want to get a good rest.' The beetle bug laughed.

"But in a few days the caterpillar came out of the bunch of leaves where it had hidden. It didn't look at all like itself, for beautiful broad wings had grown out of its back, and nobody could have called it a worm any more. The wings were like fine silk, and they were of three colors. 'Now, I'll fly with you,' said the caterpillar to the beetle bug. 'Here goes!' Both flew at once, but the beetle bug, as usual, dropped to the ground, while the caterpillar, which wasn't a caterpillar any more, but had turned into a beautiful butterfly, flew right up into the air.

"Mrs. Cow came along and stepped on the beetle bug, crushing him to death, but the butterfly flew down and lit on her back and sang.

"So, children, never despise a thing because it looks ugly, for it may be beautiful after all."

RETURNED VERDICT IN WILL CASE

In the case of Samuel F. Moore et al. vs. Allen B. Gregg et al., which has been on trial for a week or more, the jurors returned a verdict finding that the paper writing produced in court is not the valid last will and testament of Ensey Finney Haas, deceased. Plaintiffs alleged in their petition that Haas at the date of the paper and for some time prior thereto, was not of sound mind and memory, by reason of age, protracted disease, and was mentally incapacitated to make a proper distribution of his property; that he was influenced and coerced into making and signing said paper. The defendants answered that he was of sound mind and memory, was under no undue influence, whatever, was not persuaded or coerced into signing and executing the same by any undue influence, and that the will was freely and voluntarily made.

A motion for a new trial will be filed by the defendants and the case will no doubt be taken to the circuit court.

London Exchange Bank Co. vs. O. B. Young et al., and same vs. W. J. Fulton, suits on promissory notes growing out of a hedge fence transaction, verdicts for plaintiffs against the original assignment will begin May 23.

Parties indicted by the last grand jury will be arraigned Saturday, May 7.

Judge Wickham will be here Monday, May 16, for one week, and hold court.

Judge Mansfield will be here the week commencing May 23, for one week.

Motions for new trials in liquor cases will be passed upon Saturday, May 7.

The Building Association in Francis Smith et al., sale confirmed; deed and distribution ordered.

The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity with the friends of the young ladies and of the school, and the program, in all its numbers, was most heartily appreciated by all who were in attendance. The Shegerson Glee Club is one of the best musical organizations in the history, and all took more than ordinary interest in the unusually fine program that was rendered on Wednesday evening.

When people in Granville retired Wednesday night they realized that there was frost in the air, and they had taken every precaution to protect their plants and flowers and small gardens. Mr. Burton Case, who has been devoting so much time to protecting his big peach orchard north of town, went out to the farm again Wednesday night. The frost was a pretty heavy one and no doubt did considerable damage, the amount of which cannot be estimated at this time. There is no doubt but what the last two or three frosts have placed their blight on the fruit and garden truck.

A feature that old-timers notice in the barber shop of today is the absence of the Police Gazette and similar publications. Very few barbers have this class of literature around, very sensibly supplying their patrons with the local papers.

Nearly all the towns and cities have spitting ordinances, but when a man or woman desires to spit, they just simply spit, no matter whether it is on the sidewalk or elsewhere. One sees this done a score or three daily.

The members of the Denison band team have been doing some hard practice work during the past several days, in anticipation of the hard work that will be required of them when they go up against Cincinnati Friday afternoon of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Vincent and little son, Harold, of Springfield, Ohio, who have been visiting relatives and friends here for a few days, have returned home.

Mr. J. L. Lewis is engaged in moving his household goods to New Philadelphia.

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through colds, croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a bad case of croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs. 50c., $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by F. D. Hall.

CENTENNIAL

Several from this place attended the show at Newark-Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Alsop visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wince, Sunday.

Mrs. Angeline Riley spent a few days in Newark last week.

School will be closed Friday, May 6th, after a very successful term, with Mr. A. C. Kieckley as teacher.

Bandits Shoot

UP THE TOWN

East Liverpool, May 5.—Four bandits cracked the safe of the New York and Ohio National Bank at Newark, Ohio, on Wednesday night, and escaped with $10,000.

The bandits, who were dressed in black, entered the bank at midnight and, after a short search, found the safe. They then opened it and took out the money. The bandits then fled in a motor car, and were followed by a police car. The police car was unable to catch them, and they escaped.

Five police with machine guns are trading them today. They crossed the river to this city and the south. It is not known whether they remained in Ohio, crossed back to West Virginia, or went to Kentucky.

HUNGARIAN

IV. DURANCE VILE FOR ATTEMPT TO DRAW COMRADES' MONEY FROM BANK.

Tried the Game in Newark. But Was Not Successful—Forged Order for Funds.

Columbus, May 5.—Anton Bernick, an Hungarian laborer, was arrested at the cashiers window of the Commercial National Bank yesterday, by Patrolman Speckman, as he was trying to draw money with a passbook belonging to another Hungarian who worked with him.

The bank had been notified of the loss or theft of the book by the owner and when Bernick appeared Speckman was immediately summoned.

Bernick had attempted to secure the funds contained in the book at Newark by giving the Newark bank an order signed by the name of the owner of the book. The Newark bank communicated with the Commercial National and was notified to hold the money. It left, however, before he could be detained.

He appeared at the cashiers window of the Columbus bank yesterday and presented the book for the entire amount, more than $1000. To do so he was compelled to sign an order, which will make him liable for recovery. The order he signed at Newark will make another case against him should the charge be pressed.

Cashier George A. Archer, of the Commercial National Bank will file an affidavit against him today.
